Welcome to my new website.

My name is Yanislav and I work as a technical support for a hosting company, called SiteGroup. This website is dedicated to my simple tools project which I have started for personal use, but decided to share with the online community. The tools I develop deal with some common issues I have encountered in my practice. They might not be pretty (as I am not a designer), yet you might find them very useful in certain cases. Please feel free to contact me with any bug reports or suggestions for new tools development. I will be more than happy to develop new tools or features if they seem to be needed by enough people 😊
